Do you know what an advanced directive is?

Advance directives are a means for you to tell your health care givers about the care you wish to receive or not receive should you ever become unable to tell them of your wishes. There are two forms of advanced directives. The first is a Living Will. The other is known as "durable appointment of attorney for health care decisions" or may also be called "durable power of attorney of a surrogate health care decision". Please discuss your advance directive choices with your Primary Care Physician.
